

Syndicated Column Service Agreement

This is a service agreement between Linda Fulkerson ("Creator") and the undersigned ("Client") executed by the Client on the _____ day of _____, 20____. The Creator is engaged in the service of syndicating written columns to print publications. The Creator will deliver columns via e-mail no later than 11:00 p.m. Central Time on the Sunday prior to the column's publication date. The Creator is a contributing artist and will perform all service acts of delivery, fee and contract negotiations, billing and collections.

Client agrees not to rent, sell, provide, or otherwise dispose of any columns provided by Creator with the exception of one-time print rights being assigned by Creator as per this agreement. Additional distribution, print, and electronic rights may be granted by Creator for an additional fee, upon written request by Client. The Client also agrees not to edit content of the columns without first receiving permission from the Creator.

Client agrees to pay creator for services at the rate of $5 per column, pursuant to this agreement. Billing will be monthly with invoices distributed via e-mail (unless Client requests in writing to receive printed invoices) after the last Sunday of each month. Clients who choose to pay annually are entitled to a 10 percent discount, for a total of $234/year, due within thirty (30) days of the date of this agreement. Payment for services rendered by creator shall be made by Client within thirty (30) days of date of invoice, payable to the Creator. Accounts sixty (60) days past due are subject to contract termination without notice.

This contract will continue on a month-to-month basis until either party shall have given the other thirty (30) days written notice of the desire to terminate this agreement, or under the nonpayment terms above.

This contract constitutes the entire understanding and agreement between the parties; it is subject to cancellation only as provided above, and it may not be altered or varied by oral agreement or representatives of any third party.

Creator: Linda L. Fulkerson
PO Box 848
Morrilton, AR 72110

Date

Client

Date